

Jacqueline Perry

design • communications • marketing

Experienced designer focused on supporting organizational growth through creative marketing and communications solutions from strategy through execution.

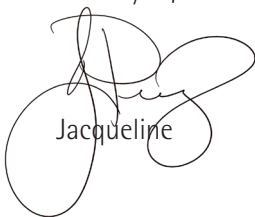

Hello,

I am Jacqueline Perry, a trained graphic designer with over twenty years of experience delivering marketing and communication solutions to varying stakeholders and clients ranging from healthcare to academia. For my next opportunity, I am most excited about the potential to lead and mentor junior staff while leveraging analytical insights to deliver and exceed desired results. I am a natural driver for the design process and product strategy and have a record of delivering designs that solve problems in a creative way.

I enjoy building systems and processes for efficiency and accuracy and I thrive in environments where transparency and openness in the exchange of ideas and feedback are commonplace interactions. I enjoy collaborative design planning and strategy with executives as well as translating these plans to tactical delivery through junior team members.

I'm not just seeking any job, I am looking for a role/opportunity where I can bring my talents in support of your organization's goals. If my background resonates with you in consideration for your position, please contact me, and feel free to view my portfolio online at www.jperrydesigns.com.

Thank you,

Jacqueline
